To mark the recent completion of Somerset College's unique and innovative Sustainable Construction Resource Centre, the Genesis team, in collaboration with Dorset Centre for Rural Skills, have developed a series of nine one day courses that are primarily inspired by the experience of building the Genesis Centre.

This first set of nine CPD events seeks to pass on some of what we have learnt about the materials used, the skills needed to work with them, the knowledge gaps that exist and the research and development that is taking place.

Each individual event has been designed to explore what place the methods of construction and materials used on the Genesis Centre have in mainstream construction practice, including relevant legislation.

At Genesis we prefer, wherever possible, to ensure that visitors, delegates and students enjoy the benefits of a unique and more personal approach from the members of our team. For this reason these CPD events are restricted to a maximum of twenty places on any one-day. We believe this format helps promote discussion and ensures maximum benefit for all attendees.
